

OGDEN CROWDS WELCOME COX

Democrat Standard - bearer
Outlines Campaign Policies
at Alhambra Theatre

Before a non-partisan audience of more than 2000 persons who crowded the Alhambra theatre where standing room was at a premium, Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic candidate for president of the United States, vigorously defended the league of nations in Ogden yesterday afternoon.

Governor Cox's voice was hoarse from the strain of his many campaign talks throughout the west, but he weathered his Ogden address well and was given a thunderous demonstration as he finished.

HAMMERS "OLIGARCHY."
The Democratic standard-bearer continued his hammering of campaign issues that have featured his speeches throughout the west and made the league of nations and the misdeeds of the "senatorial oligarchy" his principal subjects. During his hour's talk here he made no mention of the campaign fund of the Republicans and made no new attacks upon the opposing political party.

The Cox special arrived in Ogden at 3:30 o'clock, more than one hour late. At 1:30 o'clock, the scheduled time of his arrival in Ogden, he was still talking to a large "Peach Day" audience in Brigham City.

A huge crowd, headed by the Southern Pacific band, gathered at the Union depot shortly after 2 o'clock and awaited the arrival of the special. Governor Simon Bamberger, Mayor Frank Francis and a large reception committee were present to greet Governor Cox and his party when the train appeared.

One of the features of Governor Cox's Ogden visit was the manner in which city officials, prominent business men and well known members of opposing political parties formed together in a non-partisan body to greet the campaigner. They gave him a warm reception both at the depot and at the theatre.

PARADE FORMS.
Immediately upon the arrival a parade was formed at the depot and Governor Cox was taken to the Alhambra theatre. Mayor Frank Francis gave a brief address of welcome and introduced E. S. Hinckley, who outlined the accomplishments of the Democratic administration. The theatre was filled to capacity when Mr. Hinckley at last introduced Governor Cox as "the next president of the United States."

Governor Cox began his talk by paying high tribute to the west and said that during his western tour of the past ten days and had been attending a great university which had taught him many valuable things.

He declared that the United States is faced with one of the most critical and important periods in history, and the people must meet it as a constructive people. "The vital and outstanding questions should not be treated as political issues at all," he said. "We should forget party because we are confronted with questions which we must meet as the soldiers meet the task before them, not as partisans, but as Americans."

Governor Cox spent a few minutes in outlining the misdeeds of the "senatorial oligarchy" and calling attention to the system used by the opposition in nominating Senator Harding. "After March 4," he declared, "I do not want a first or second mortgage on the presidency, but I will go to that chair a free man without any binding shackles."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.
The candidate then plunged into the league of nations subject and asked his audience if they could afford future wars. He said that shortly before his campaign tour he had studied the European situation and found that conditions there were almost unbelievable.

"In Germany," he stated, "there are 11,000,000 underfed children. In Vienna the rich and poor people alike are running on a diet of barefooted Petrograd, with a population of 2,000,000 people in 1914, has fallen to 400,000, when thousands died of starvation. He said that men, in order to win political victory, would let this condition continue."

"Many of these people have been our enemies, but no matter who they are, my heart goes out to them if they are starving to death," Governor Cox said.

"The senatorial oligarchy," he continued, "has driven President Wilson into a bed of sickness and has kept him there for a year and one-half. Men who are criticizing world peace have not come forth with a single suggestion how peace can be assured without a league of nations."

SCORES PROPOSED COURT.
He scored the court of nations which is being talked of as a substitute for the league and declared it would be worthless without force behind it. It would amount to nothing without the composite force of all nations of the world.

In closing he said that the league of nations would mean enduring peace, would give America an opportunity of saving the world and proving itself more worthy in the eyes of God. Governor Cox assured his hearers that he stood for the same platform on which he stood at the conference of nomination and would continue in his stand March 4, 1921.

S. P. Dobbs Attending Candidates Sessions
Stuart P. Dobbs, Democrat candidate for state attorney general in Salt Lake today attended a conference of candidates. The meeting is to be held at the Newhouse hotel. Plans for stamping the state will be outlined and sections of the various candidates are to cover will be mapped out.

Mr. Dobbs said this morning that under his present plans he will speak in every county with the exception of Rich and Daguerre.
